"The tiles of the surround are hand-painted Delft and original to the home," says Charlotte, North Carolina-based designer Gray Walker. "I wanted to pay homage to the blue-and-white of the tile and decided to infuse the emerald green to modernize the color scheme. The painting above the mantel was part of the homeowner's existing art collection. I placed it there to further pull the color scheme together. My design philosophy is rooted in honoring special architectural details when I have the opportunity in old homes."
